

Trestle Defender™

The gold standard of listing security

The security you demand. From the leader you trust.

Whether protecting your listings from account theft, password sharing, hacking, or insider jobs, you've grown to trust Clarity® solutions—which are now a part of CoreLogic®—as the industry leaders to defend what matters most.

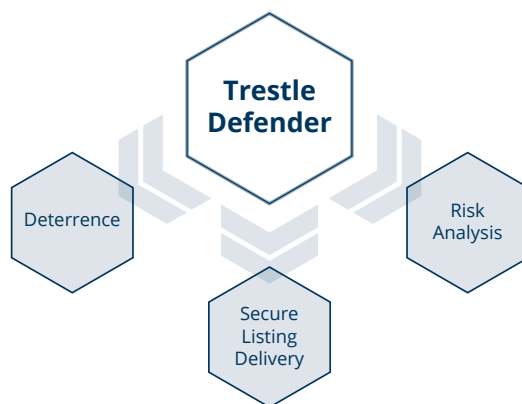

From risk assessment consulting, to 24/7 automatic monitoring, artificial intelligence algorithms detecting high risk behavior, instant rules-based remediation to minimize damage, and scoring of high-risk users, we've defined the gold standard for property listing security for over a decade.

Share your data with confidence, knowing you have the gold standard of security watching your back.

Now, this proven industry leadership is extended to the distribution of your listings to third-parties with Trestle Defender.

The three data moats

Trestle Defender protects the down-stream delivery of your data in three important ways:

■ Deterrence

The best theft is the one that never happens. That's why deterrence is your first and most important line of defense. Using our decades of combined experience serving hundreds of multiple listing organizations, we'll perform a distribution risk assessment and provide a best practices review, enhanced password management procedures, and insightful data usage reporting to help you shore up the vulnerabilities that create risk for your organization.

"Listings are the lifeblood of our clients and safeguarding the integrity of those listings is a very important priority for us. We've been a leader in mortgage fraud detection and scoring for over a decade now.

That expertise, combined with our long history of account-level monitoring via Clarity® SafeMLS® Plus, makes Trestle Defender a powerhouse of both short-term and long-term listing protection. Our clients know we're the proven industry leader in data security and they expect nothing less to assure the continued integrity of their listings."

▪ Secure listing delivery

Once your deterrence guardrails are in place, Trestle Defender provides secured data transport to third-parties. This means only those third-parties you explicitly authorize receive RETS or web-API feeds. But that's only the beginning. Behavioral intelligence algorithms, sharpened over a decade of detecting unauthorized access, monitor third-party usage of your feeds to detect potential misuse. These risks are scored for severity and you're immediately alerted. Clarity experts, with decades of experience in the intersection of real estate and security, have identified the industry's most prevalent risks and incorporated that knowledge into the Trestle Defender Risk Analysis Tool. With this tool, risky behavior is easily identified and communicated using a Risk Score.

Finally, you establish remediation rules to govern actions through Trestle. Should a risk scenario warrant immediate action steps, Trestle will automatically implement your rules, including the immediate revocation of the third-party's license rights and ability to receive your listings.

▪ Risk analysis

Finally, Trestle Defender will institute a contributory database to create both a direct and peer-driven resource to score and assess third-parties who request your data. A third-party who violates other multiple listing organization licensing terms (and is reported), or is automatically flagged for potential misuse by Trestle Defender, will be visible to you, via a simple dashboard, when assessing whether or not to approve their request to license your listings. This is still another deterrence service to minimize potential violations and misuse before they even happen.

Are you ready?

There's so much more to know about Trestle Defender and we're here to answer every question. If you consider data security a top priority for your organization, then we believe we're the industry leader that you, and hundreds of multiple listing organizations across North America, have learned to trust. Let us tell you about the Trestle Defender difference.
